Gallery News

Plenty has been going on behind the scenes at Michael Wilson Diamond Jewellers.

We have been extremely busy creating an online shop for our website. Currently our main creative jewellery ranges are all available to purchase online. The convenience of our online store will make it easy to shop for your favourite Michael Wilson collections.

As always the jewellers have been busy creating stunning new rings for custom jobs and to showcase new and unique stones for display. We are most excited about the range of natural coloured diamond rings (please see front cover). When Aaron sourced these rare sets of coloured diamonds, we wanted some truly unique designs to complement the stunning and subtle shades of colour.

Every year Aaron heads overseas on buying trips to keep up to date with the latest in technology, jewellery trends and to source unique materials. This year has been no exception with a trip to Hong Kong earlier in the year and Aaron's first trip to the Las Vegas Jewellery fair, which Michael has always enjoyed attending.

But perhaps the most exciting news is preparations for Michael's upcoming exhibition. He has been working extremely hard creating a range of one-of-a-kind works including various jewellery designs and some large scale corten steel sculpture, all available for purchase. Retirement has never been busier. The exhibition will be open for viewing in September (please see page 5 for details).

Sapphires

When Aaron took an excursion to Vegas earlier in the year, he was on a mission to source some bright blue sapphires. It is not always easy to find natural sapphires in just the right bright blue hue with plenty of sparkle and brilliance. Luckily Aaron made contact with some suppliers of these stunning gems with exceptional prices, that we are able to pass on to our clients. We have made these stones up into a range of designs, suitable for a variety of occasions and tastes. A wider selection of sapphire and coloured gemstone rings are on display in the Eltham gallery.

The Australian Diamonds will contest seven Test matches in 2013, starting with a five-Test Constellation Cup series against New Zealand before concluding with a two-Test series against Malawi for the first time ever on home soil. This year's series against New Zealand will mark a Diamond Jubilee with 75 years since the first trans-Tasman Test match between Australia and New Zealand in August 1938.

Favourites

Classic designs by Michael Wilson Diamond Jewellers make ideal gifts.

Gumleaf & Nut Pendant

From Michael's collection of Australian brooches, this piece represents the native Green Tree Frog. Largely handcrafted in sterling silver with contrasting 22ct yellow dew drops, this substantial brooch makes a fantastic addition to any winter coat or wrap.

Jabiru Memories is a collection of works designed and made by Michael Wilson to reflect his appreciation of the Kakadu landscape and ancient rock art images.

The exhibition consists of a number of jewellery designs and some large corten steel sculptures. Although metal is a common medium in Michael's work, corten steel is a recent addition to his creative repertoire. The weathering steel builds a barrier against further rusting, making it ideal for outdoor surroundings as well as providing an ideal colour palette to represent the rich soil of the Northern Territory and Western Australian landscapes.

All pieces in the exhibition are original works handcrafted by Michael himself and will be available for sale after the opening date.

Michael would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the original creators of the stunning rock art images that have been such a huge source of admiration and inspiration to him:

I acknowledge the traditional owners, the Gundjeihmi, Kunwinjku and Jawoyn people who have lived and nurtured this landscape for many thousands of years.

My greatest hope is that my work encourages others to travel to this wonderful part of Australia, to have the same experience of the landscape and see the extraordinary artistic recordings of our earliest Australians.
